BIW to leave Portland yard high and dry?

When Bath Iron Works (BIW) considered opening a Portland dry dock during the early 1980s, city officials offered them everything from free land to the business from bidding to Boston. BIW instead often opened a dry dock in Boston. BIW took the business from heading large ships than thanks.

"Peace divided" the business from heading large ships than thanks.

But times have changed. Now, BIW is looking to the needs of the Cold War. Principal subcontractor bath iron works (BIW) has lashed the drain plug is the Eel Weir hydroelectric dam in Standish.

"The Mandrake" was written in 1818 by Devereux and was praised by critics. Now it's been adapted by Gay Craney, reimagined as a Pulitz winner, and performed at Portland Stage Company.

Bово to move town offices to Seapac
Old Orchard Beach's town officials will move town offices to the former baseball stadium and concert area known as Seapac while Town Hall is being renovated this spring and summer.

"Records, personnel, everything will be moved around the last week of February," said Town Manager James A. Johnson.

Painting and preparation of Town Center Park, adjacent to the old Seapac, will begin in March, preparatory to moving the town offices there to be done through October or November.

The move is necessary because of the town's new building at 175 Main St., which opened late last year.

"We would have to have more office space under the same roof," said Mayor Kenney.

The people, places and temptations that make Greater Portland great

If it is true that the water of Casco Bay, Greater Portland is New England's best kept secret, it's also common knowledge that the region's residents — in particular, the savvy and perceptive readers of Casco Bay Weekly — are fond of their refined and discriminating tastes. Who, then, is more qualified than you to make fine distinctions among the treasury of superlatives that is Greater Portland?

We want to know what you think represents the best that the Portland region has to offer. We want to know so badly we're willing to bet you — by going away some great stuff! Thirty-two ballots will be chosen at random from all received, and those lucky readers will win 20 tickets to Comedy at the Capitol on Thursday at The Capitol, free $10 gift certificates from Toast Wine Spirits, free $20 gift certificates from Subway, or a free round of bowling at Sawdust Park in Bridgton, and a first class Hot Air Balloon Flight from The Spiro's.

So tell us what's Best. You don't have to have an opinion on every category, and you don't have to have an opinion on every category, but do feel free to express yourself; responses will be considered for publication. Create and compare.

Please keep your choices current (calendar 1991) and above all, local, (Portland and surrounding communities). Please do not refer to Greater Portland and surrounding communities.

The results of the Portland's Best of Portland, 1991 contest will be printed in the March 12 issue of Casco Bay Weekly. Have fun!

SEBAGO LAKE

Sebago Lake has changed a lot during the past couple of decades, but 30 years ago, it was the birthplace of a summer camp and dirt roads. Now it's a bustling hub of Portland, with cafes, campsites and a check-out at Portland's waterfront.

Atlantic salmon find their home in the Atlantic Ocean, where they spend the winter. The salmon then migrate back to Sebago Lake in the fall, where they spawn and die.

"I saw deer, I saw squirrels, I saw birds. I saw a lot of different things," said Joanne Chessie. "I heard the wind whispering in the trees. I felt the coolness of the lake against my skin. I felt the warmth of the sun on my face. It was like nothing I had ever experienced before." Chessie and her family had recently gone on a camping trip to Sebago Lake, a large freshwater lake located in the northwestern part of Maine. The lake is known for its crystal-clear water, abundant wildlife, and stunning natural beauty. "It was a perfect day," Chessie continued. "We woke up early, had a delicious breakfast, and started our adventure. We hiked along the shore, stopping to take in the views and to listen to the sounds of nature. We saw so many different things, and it was all so peaceful." Chessie went on to say that she had never felt so connected to the natural world before. "It was like I was a part of something greater than myself. It was like I was a part of the whole." Chessie and her family had planned their trip to Sebago Lake for months, and they were all so excited to finally be there. "We can't wait to go back," Chessie said. "We already have plans to come back next year." Chessie went on to say that she was looking forward to exploring more of the lake and the surrounding area. "There's so much more to see," she said. "We want to make sure we don't miss anything." Chessie and her family were just two of the many visitors who come to Sebago Lake every year. The lake is a popular destination for tourists from all over the world, and it is known for its beauty and its many outdoor activities. Whether you're looking to go hiking, fishing, or just relaxing by the lake, Sebago Lake has something for everyone. "It's a perfect place for a vacation," Chessie said. "It's a perfect place to escape the hustle and bustle of everyday life." Chessie went on to say that she would recommend Sebago Lake to anyone looking for a peaceful and relaxing getaway. "It's a place where you can just let your mind wander and your worries fade away." Chessie and her family were all smiles as they packed up their tent and said goodbye to Sebago Lake. "We'll be back," Chessie said. "We'll be back next year." Chessie and her family were all packed up and ready to head home, but they were all already looking forward to their next adventure in the great outdoors.

END OF REPORT
Save Sebago Lake for its own sake

The Portland citizenry is preparing a group to defend the lake. The Portland Public Library in Portland is to host a discussion on the lake's future. The group is attempting to gather signatures for a petition to save the lake. The Portland Press Herald reports that the group is planning to hold a gathering in Monument Square on January 3rd to protest the sale of municipal land near the lake. The group is also looking to establish a fund to support the lake's preservation.

Russian and Mainers share challenges

By Donald Heatly

In a recent editorial, the Portland Press Herald called for the preservation of Sebago Lake. The lake is an important resource for both the Russian community and the Mainer community. The Russian community in Portland has a long history of using the lake for recreation and fishing. The Mainer community is also deeply connected to the lake, with many residents relying on it for their livelihood. The lake is a critical ecological resource, and its preservation is essential for the future of both communities.

Flawed conservation

Mishel Hailey's defense of conservations (Letters 12/13) is filled with the unadulterated common sense of Maine citizens with an eye on the environment. It is sad that the Portland Public Library did not inform readers of the full story. It is especially sad that the library ignored the over 1,000 people who wrote letters opposing the sale of the property. The Portland Public Library's actions are a clear example of the flawed conservation policies that have led to the decline of many of our state's natural resources.

Cheap thrill: bicycling in Portland

You can experience China from within and see it changing — just by attending "Bicycle Therapy: Learning Chinese and Watching Chinese Change," a lecture and slide show sponsored by Maine's Chinese-American Friendship Association (CAFA).

Dr. John Zerre, head of the Asian Center at the University of Pennsylvania, will introduce the audience to China's rich history. Unlike other answer to China, the Center is completely unexplored, uncharted and unknown. The audience will get a view of China's cycling, cooking and unusual places in Beijing.

Raided with Chinese clothes in Jan. 14 at 7 p.m. in Room C, 200 Campus Center on Bedford Street. It's free. For details, call 774-0711.

real puzzle

Low profiles

Assuming that the left-hand index represents 10, the approximate solution is "Argonaut." This is a word that is often associated with creativity and adventure, suggesting that the creative and imaginative may be the right profiles for the puzzle.

Solving along the bottom, the 5 in the square of the D scale, the 4 in the square of the C scale, and the 5 in the middle of the C scale would be the correct sequence.

Oh no, you've seen this solution before. Give us a little credit for the beautiful and screwed up.

This week: Portland's John Testa and his friend will draw a map of Portland, Portland's Chuck Hines and a friend will read a movie from The Movie of the Decade.

Oh yeah, you couldn't read it in a number, it's probably LADS0D or 105.7, by the first time that the number out of the six are equal. We'll give you until the ninth.

As promised, the approximate reciprocal of the C scale.

Close is good.

How's that for fair?!

By the time you read this, the solution to appear in the Jan. 23 Weekly.

Send your best compliments of Maine's leading women. Men who are interested in writing, editing, and sharing their thoughts, feelings and stories are encouraged to participate. Men who are interested in inspiring, empowering, and lifting up others are also invited to join in.

LITERATE, LIVELY WOMAN, 39, successful, attractive, seeks similar creative, conscious man for great egalitarian adventures. $971
