Concert hall plans hit sour note

Final plans to renovate Portland City Hall’s elegant but aging auditorium have been hammered out, but two caretakers of the Kotzschmar Organ quit in protest. “These changes alleviate acoustic and sight-line problems, while preserving the ambience and architectural details,” said Lee Urban of Greater Portland Citizens for the Auditorium Restoration (CARES). “Every seat will be an excellent seat.”

But organ keepers Robert L. Leslie and Christopher Row claimed the plan would harm the organ’s sound.

The re-design, which would be complete by 1994, includes plans to replace existing seating with steeper tiers and balconies; install better sound equipment; and add dressing, rehearsal and rest rooms. After Portland voters agreed in 1990 to spend $3 million on renovations, $1 million was donated by bequest. Fundraising has begun to cover the remainder.

Cuomo, Jackson supporters launch late campaigns for Maline caucuses Supporters of the Rev. Jesse Jackson and New York Gov. Mario Cuomo fired up inagurarg week in campaigns during the last hectic days before Maine's third-in-the-nation Democratic presidential caucuses.

"When I looked at the wider field, Mario Cuomo became the clear choice," said Tim By, aT Andrews, and his No. 2 exception endorsement of Cuomo, "Maine Democrats are in a position to give the nation a tremendous gift.

Andrews praised Cuomo's leadership ability, noting that Cuomo's commitment to finalize a new budget for New York rather than run for president impressed him. "That's leadership by example," he said.

Andrews will hold his own campaign phone line (775-9000) and an office for the Daily southern volunteers to use.

A similar campaign took root in New Hampshire a few weeks ago. Staff Cuomo supporters have issued more endorsements from Bonnie Mayor Ray, New Hampshire Rep. James Conzelman and former Arkansas Speaker Thomas "Tip" Simmons.

Meanwhile, two Maine activities-former state Rep. Paul Talbot, a Portland Democrat, and Rep. Susan, a Jackson delegate at the 1988-a (and a Feb. 1) news conference at the University of Southern Maine that they represent a genuine movement to draft Jackson.

"They told me they were going to start the movement," said Watkins. "Until those that join join is not a candidate in 1992.'

Public Cable vs. public cable
Responding to complaints about rising rates for cable television, officials in the Portland area are considering the idea of a government-owned system to compete with private operators that serve Cumberland County.

The idea surfaced after Public Cable Co., the area's largest cable operator, raised its rate for standard television, officials in the Maine Bank & Trust Branch.

Maline Bank & Trust branching out
Portland-based Maine Bank & Trust announced Feb. 17 that it will open two local branches in former Maine National Bank buildings.

Ray M. McCawley, president of the bank, said the new offices proposed on East Ferry Street and downtown will allow the bank to offer customers a broader range of services.

Maline Bank & Trust branching out
Portland-based Maine Bank & Trust announced Feb. 17 that it will open two local branches in former Maine National Bank buildings.

Ray M. McCawley, president of the bank, said the new offices proposed on East Ferry Street and downtown will allow the bank to offer customers a broader range of services.

The two banks would begin operating by June, he said.

One day before the announcement, The New York Times highlighted the fledgling bank in a profile. McCawley said that the Maine Bank & Trust's assets had doubled in its first six weeks of business.

Freeport balks at Coastal Bank rumor
A rumor that Coastal Bank was on the verge of being seized by federal regulators prompted the town of Freeport to pull a portion of its deposits.

"The rumor came, and whether there was anything to it or not, that was something we had to act on to protect taxpayers' money," said Town Manager David Dyer.

Dyer said that when the rumor wasn't true earlier in the week, the town's deposits at $340,000, the town's account at $22,000 and the town's employees' accounts at $15,000.

Anxious teachers at the Moore Street and Meeting School staff cut off at Coastal's Freeport branch to call their checks, but many were turned away because the town's account was already depleted by payments to other town employees.

Portland-based Coastal Bank, which has nine branches in southern Maine, has enough problems without the rumor in Freeport.

Bishop wants humane budget: The Catholic Diocese of Portland wants to become more active in public affairs as some revision of church's concerns to take a toll on social programs affecting Maine's most vulnerable populations.

Gorham widow's savings: A Scarborough insurance agent has been charged by state with stealing the $240,000 savings of a 95-year-old Gorham widow who tried to access her money to pay for her medical treatment.

MEDEC Ambulance can meet that need.

When you, or a loved one, need an ambulance or wheelchair van, call MEDEC.

or Wheelchair van

You'll save money when you ride with MEDEC Ambulance*

Medical costs are rising out of sight, and one new is more obvious of this than MEDEC Ambulance. We don't think you should have to sacrifice quality to save money.

As a non-profit Ambulance, the patient's needs come first. That doesn't mean just the medical needs, but also the psychological ones. And the financial.

Most people today have some type of insurance that helps meet medical costs. But many of those plans don't pay the full cost of ambulance service, so even if you have insurance you can save money by using the less expensive company.

The best-kept secret in the field is that MEDEC Ambulance is the most cost-effective way to get a patient to a hospital.

MEDEC Ambulance does not provide medical care; it provides transportation.

When you call MEDEC, you are calling a team of experts who are committed to providing the best possible care for your needs.

GOP rebel to run for Portland council

Former Portland Republican City Committee Chairman Carolee Coyle has taken to notoriety over the past few years, during which time she attempted a right-wing takeover of the party apparatus. But Coyle's actions have not been without consequence, as the Republican Party of Maine recently supported a compromise candidate for the Portland seat she is seeking.

Coyle has been a member of the local Republican Party for many years and has been active in local politics. She ran in the past for the Portland City Council, but was defeated in the primaries.

Coyle has a long history of activism, and has been involved in many local and state-level campaigns. She has been a vocal critic of the Democratic Party, and has supported candidates who share her views. She has also been active in the anti-tax movement, and has been a vocal opponent of the Portland City Council.

'No,' said Marjorie. "What about your stepfather?"

"He was a lawyer," said Bill. "When I was 21 he was elected state attorney general in the state of Arkansas."

"I was 25," said Bill. "I was born in the same hospital when I was five years old."

"I graduated from Harvard in 1968 and, just two years later, I was governor. During that term I retained the nickname 'Butch' with the aggressive style and longevity of my grandfather."

"Can you think of any other governor who was governor for more than nine years?"

"No."}

Bill Clinton

Bill Clinton was born on August 19, 1946, in Hope, Arkansas. He attended college at Stanford University and Yale Law School, where he graduated in 1968 and 1971, respectively. After law school, Clinton was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University and later serves two terms as Governor of Arkansas from 1979 to 1987. During this time, he implemented significant changes in the state's economy, education, and health care systems. In 1992, he won the Democratic nomination for President of the United States and defeated incumbent President George H.W. Bush and Independent candidate Pat Buchanan. Clinton became the first Democratic candidate to win the presidency since Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964. He served two terms as President, from 1993 to 2001, and is considered one of the most successful presidents in American history. Clinton is also known for his role in the 1994 North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), which controversially united the United States, Canada, and Mexico into a single economic bloc.

Mario Cuomo

Mario Cuomo was born on August 21, 1924, in New York City. He attended St. John's University and Fordham University Law School. Cuomo served as New York State Attorney General from 1963 to 1967 and was elected to the state legislature in 1967. He was elected Governor of New York in 1982 and served two terms until 1994. Cuomo is known for his moderate political approach and his strong leadership on issues such as education, health care, and economic development. He is credited with transforming New York City from a struggling metropolis to one of the most vibrant cities in the world. Cuomo is also known for his role in the 1986 funding for the new Yankee Stadium and his efforts to promote the state's film industry. He was a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the 1984 and 1988 presidential elections, but ultimately supported incumbent President Bill Clinton in 1992.
HOW TO CAUCUS

pledge to, you should support, but you’re not barred. Some of them could drop out." Especially because the Democratic state convention isn’t until Oct. 9, this is a key time for Democrats to leverage Democrats before. He wants to pave the way for the votes to be cast. pixel-Perfect elections, Democrats argue. But you don’t have to go to Madison Square Garden to take over the Democratic Party. It’s possible to do this right in your caucus classroom. Anyone who displays enough interest to show up at the caucus is a member of the Democratic Caucus—and an instant boss.

Just ask Eric Johnson, leader of the Maine Race Party. "We’re the most powerful group in the state," he says. And he’s not exaggerating. The party is made up of about 2500 people, and it’s the only group in the state that makes policy decisions outside the capital—just like the Republican Party does.

The changes America needs will come from a place deeper than politics. Jerry Brown has been there. His solutions are honest, clear, simple, necessary. Jerry Brown. The president America needs.

Jerry Brown has traveled to Maine more than any other 1992 Democratic Presidential candidate. He has spoken with and most importantly listened in person to the concerns and issues of the people of Augusta, Auburn, Bangor, Belfast, Biddaford, Brunswick, Buckport, Lewiston, Orons, Portland and Topsham. And he will return to Maine February 19 - February 23 for five solid days of continuous public events and forums to continue to listen and share his views on the economy, fair taxation, jobs, education, health care, the environment, safety, and foreign affairs. Call us for more details so you can attend the event nearest you.

As Governor of California, Jerry Brown...

- Stood the strongest environmental record of any governor in American history.
- Made California the world leader in use of alternative energy, conservation and environmental protection.
- Supported wild turkeys and salmon collectors that now produce more energy than Maine Yankee.
- Adopted the toughest clean-air laws in America and placed a moratorium on new nuclear power until safety and waste concerns are resolved.
- Appointed more women to positions of power than any other governor in America.
- Created 2.2 million jobs — literally out of every new job created in the entire United States.
- Refused to reside in the pompous Reagan Governor's Mansion and instead lived in an apartment, and paid his own rent. He also returned and returned a salary increase four times.

Our message:
No more politics as usual.

Our messenger: Jerry Brown.

The New Hampshire primary is over. As expected, thetechniques of post-election consolidation who make the Granite State famous have made the right choices. The Massachusetts Democrats who backed the late Michael Dukakis have been rewarded with victory, just as the Democrats who backed the late Michael Dukakis have been rewarded with victory. And the Republicans who backed the late Michael Dukakis have been rewarded with victory.

The more things change, the more they stay the same.

The Democratic power brokers who brought you the marathon and startlingly mediocre victory of Walter Mondale and Mike Dukakis are already hard at work to keep their state from making a serious mistake in the primaries. Even before the ballots were counted in New Hampshire, the Democratic establishment was already planning the next moves in the party's strategy.

THE ANDREWS FAMILY

The Andrews Family have given us a wonderful night of music and entertainment. The Andrews Family is an American vocal group that has been performing together since the 1960s. They are known for their harmonies and their covers of classic gospel and country songs. Their performance was highlights of the evening and was a great way to start the new year.

Weylaid in the desert of love

John Gordon, in his collection of essays makes a strong pitch for the lost and forgotten concept that fiction should serve a novel purpose. It should teach, Gordon believes, it should be a moral compass and a map for the soul—a way to navigate the troubled waters of the human spirit—and it should offer, at least, the consolation of hope.

But not long after his first book, "The Art of Fiction" was published in New York in 1981, Gordon began to feel that he was losing his grip on reality. He had always been fascinated by the power of fiction to transport the reader to another place and time, but now he found himself struggling to maintain the momentum of his writing.

Gordon's new book, "Weylaid in the Desert of Love," is aanswer to his own dilemma. It is a collection of essays that explore the nature of fiction and its role in the modern world. Gordon argues that fiction should not be about escapism but about confronting the realities of life.

"Weylaid in the desert of love" is a powerful testament to Gordon's commitment to the power and potential of fiction. It is a book for anyone who loves literature and wants to understand its role in our lives.

WMCP radio artist on a challenging new single

Fortunately, what Sony and its CD-coprocessors would have you believe is "new" technology is well founded. Because, in addition to the research of technology and corporate answers, vinyl is surviving underground, most notably in the form of independently released Keye singles.

Carrying on a 1960s new wave tradition that hails this hallowed format, Sony, naturally, are most directly new music today in being released on singles to forward promoting label PR is enough. Now joining the trio is WMCP radio artist Tug Plagiarist, who has announced the innovation of a new label, Water face, and its first single, "Ludicrous Goddard," (Remixed). Cited from most WMCP radio Wednesday, 11 p.m. to 2 a.m., the record will be offered at the Remixed label's 4-10 pm tap opening, free.

One of the latest to join the several local labels, Water face's approach has been anything quite like before, yet "plagiarism" is that every record to achieve some other legendary "shoegaze.

Anyone who accepts the premise that their work and their life are associated with the label, then the label must also accept that their life becomes a new aspect of plagiarism.

Tug Plagiarist, who produces and records music in his own "Shoegaze," explains The Plagiarist's release. But "We're at a point in our cultures when the things we need to work is not 'old school'; we're only now a music is working to achieve some out of society individuals. "That's why I enjoy making the music. It's for the band itself," Tug Plagiarist said.

We're here to provide a platform for a record that challenges all of your music's common, stuff from previous songs. "Ludicrous Goddard," for side potential on a college radio hit, "Tug Plagiarist's Band" has a song. The new label's first single is a mix of bands and/or artists, of which none are brand new. As Tug Plagiarist explained, he's interested in the "process of the telephone as an audio tool that allows for experimentation.

"For example, when I called Clean, he informed me that he was interested in the telephone as an audio tool that allows for experimentation. You're here! We offer flexible scheduling, great teachers, programs and individual attention to help you gain admission to the college or grad school of your choice. We also offer free diagnostic testing for SAT, GRE, GMAT, LSAT and MCAT exams as a comprehensive pro..."
