Mary Boynton's job at the Sonesta Hotel has its ups and downs.

Living in a hotel can be a drag, visiting one is often unsettling and working in one is soul-draining—especially to deal with, for the hotel, Mary Boynton, elevator operator at the Sonesta, alleviates those dreadful possibilities. She is an odd pro at the ups and downs game and has such a way with people that even the health-minded take the elevator instead of the stairs.

How long have you been an elevator operator?
I've been at the Sonesta, 15 years. I came from Portland 20 years ago. I did ticketing at steady hotel for about 5 years.

What about that elevator operator? It's fine. You meet a lot of people, I met Kenny Rogers and Andrew McCarthy and that guy on "30 Minutes," Ed Bradley. And if I don't know the name of a person, I know the name of the room. The people who work here are funny, there's a lot of excitement here.

What is so great about being an elevator operator?
It's fine. You meet a lot of people. I met Kenny Rogers and Andrew McCarthy and that guy on "30 Minutes," Ed Bradley. And if I don't know the name of a person, I know the name of the room. The people who work here are funny, there's a lot of excitement here.

What's not so great about it?
When I'm not busy, I go up to a certain floor and go hide and have a smoke or read a book. We all do that, go hide.

What does your name mean?
Perfect something. Perfect service or something. I got that quite a while ago. It must be "L" for elevator. I bought it for a special service elevator.

Don't you feel cramped? Don't I ever bother your stomach?
No. I just stick my head out when I feel like it. I can handle anything. Do you regret not being able to retire?
I wouldn't know what to do with myself. I'd still work here and they said all they had was 6 floors. Before Porteous I worked for Cushman's Bakery for a few months.

What kind of changes have you seen in Portland's tourist business?
More touristy, more busier, more famous people, more politicians, more New Yorkers, more fun for me.

Does it ever bother your stomach?
No. It's fun. More tourists, more busier, more famous people, more politicians, more New Yorkers, more fun for me.

Can you talk and drive at the same time?
Sure, I can talk and drive at the same time.

What do you like about Portland?
I live here and I love this place, I'd rather live here than anywhere else.

For the cap

One of the chief means these local tax caps are being respected is the lack of funds for education. In many cases, these funds are being transferred from other areas of the budget. As a result, schools have to find ways to cut costs, which often means cutting programs and staff. The cap is intended to prevent this from happening.

I wish some member of the local regiments would explain why the bridge is being built. It looks very incredible without the characteristic columns with some nautical and the like.

Bridge plans

The Maine Department of Transportation presented its proposals for the Portland Bridge replacement on May 5. Every one of the bridge proposals, the evening meeting was sure to be full. We do much better.

The presentation successfully established the engineering principles of both the favored designs - the concrete bridge and the steel girder concepts. The Maine Department of Transportation knows that this bridge is a known entity - one of the bridges that it is in Maine, of Transportation knows they work and know what the maintenance looks like.

The majority of discussion at the meeting, mostly city councilors, were interested in the options for the bridge, favoring the less expensive concrete bridge for appearance. The concrete bridge is the one that showed itself to the people, being near one of the more important concepts of the bridge. The demonstration of the bridge in its bare essentials, along with the supports, was one of the more significant aspects of the bridge.

The "ribbon" concept for the bridge is being considered. It is a positive safety factor. The proposed Portland Bridge replacement is a need of historic significance. Being near the bridge over water and driving on under it, playing in parks near it, getting off at the international ferries that go to Canada, will be like being near one of the most beautiful landmarks. A bridge like this is a known entity, a gate for pedestrians, bicyclists and drivers between Portland and South Portland. If I were the king and these engineers I would send them back to the drawing board.

In the words of Chief of Staff, "Continued concentration on your bed and you will suffocate in your own waste." He said that in 1945. Imagine what he'd say today. Fixed with the score of 249-1000 bargains by the American car manufacturers, the American auto manufacturer is another, both gainers to the benefit of our autos.

The bridge should be designed as a landmark, with all of the features that we’ve seen in our local architecture and an even more impressive bridge.

District Three candidates.

If you live in District Three you will have the opportunity to vote for the at-large candidates at right as well as choose your school board representatives and a district representative to the school committee. District Three fails to gain representation if there are not enough voters in the City of Portland to vote for the at-large candidates. Only those of the nine council seats are being contested. One is for District Three and the other two seats are "at-large" seats.

Casino Weekly asked each of the candidates two questions: First: Where do you stand on the tax cap referendum, and why? Second: What is the most important problem that you think Portland will face during the next few years and what will you do about it?

Their answers, along with the biographical tidbits the supplied, are at right. If you have any questions or comments, please call the candidates. They're asking for your vote. You have the right to know who they are.
