CASCO BAY WEEKLY presents
THE NATURAL ORDER
BY MONICA WOOD page 5
CAT WALK
BY TIM WOOTEN page 7

RELEVANT FICTION
On the following pages are the winners of Casco Bay Weekly's first Relevant Fiction Competition. From the 22 stories entered, the judges chose those two they thought stood boldly apart from the others. They also chose two stories they considered worthy of honorable mention.

The judges were: Elizabeth Cooke, author, of "Complexity" (Little Brown/1986) and a founding editor of Boston Review, publisher of Blackberry Books and co-owner of Gulf of Maine Books in Brunswick, and Barbara McGrath, author, director of the "Central Writer's" program and a writing teacher at the University of Southern Maine. Publisher Mark Melnicove withdrew as a judge, writing in explanation: "Although the author's name were removed from the stories, I recognized some of the work and it would be a conflict of interest for me, as publisher of the Daily Press Ear, to be a judge."

The remaining judges agreed that the best stories delivered strong themes and strong voices without ever making the reader aware of the interplay between the two. They felt as if the stories already existed," said Ms. Cooke, "and the creation is getting them on paper."

"The Natural Order" begins on the facing page: "From start to finish, the best writing," said Mr. Lawless of this story. "The guy is unusual, but she doesn't push it so far that he's not believable."

"Cat Walk" begins on page 7.

McGrath noted, "It's hard to write a story with political overtones and yet have the characters run the story. He pulled it off."

All three judges had reservations on the remaining stories. Each found brilliant aspects in certain stories, but the overall story or the writing suffered from weak voices or unsustained themes. The contest that made me feel foolish. My mother had nothing to do that day and I took her on one of her bird trips last year. Our regular bird trips are through Casco Bay. In the fall, I usually look for shorebirds and waders. I think it is safer than the big birds because the smaller ones are not easily injured. I have always been interested in birds and I have always been a bird watcher. I have always been interested in nature and the outdoors. I have always been interested in the beauty of nature and the peace and tranquility it brings. I have always been interested in the way birds and animals interact with each other.

My mother considers herself a bird watcher, and she has been a bird watcher for many years. She has always been interested in birds and she has always been interested in nature. She has always been interested in the beauty of nature and the peace and tranquility it brings. She has always been interested in the way birds and animals interact with each other.

On Friday, when my mother mentioned, between bits of eggplant parmesan, that the seagull always hung around her, Glenn pulled out one of the 10 Whitby bird bathes that had come with his apartment. He presented the dainty bird, insistently repeated inside a plastic pierced bag, on the palm of his hand. The whale was growing, but the gull lives. So upper lip display seemed to be more important. He believed life would be pleased. He thinks of her actions as devices to renew.

"Where did you find it?" asked after my mother had removed itself. We could have had such a thing in the bathroom, water running. Glenn's apartment is too small and the walls are no thicker than pane. The dainty bird, insistently repeated inside a plastic pierced bag, on the palm of his hand. The whale was growing, but the gull lives. So upper lip display seemed to be more important. He believed life would be pleased. He thinks of her actions as devices to renew.

The day after the great power outage I went on my morning run. I peeled off my overshoes, which had failed to protect my feet from the cold, and started running through the streets of the city. The sun was just beginning to rise, casting a warm glow over everything. I felt a sense of peace and tranquility as I ran, and I could hear the rustling of leaves in the trees. I felt a sense of freedom as I ran, and I could hear the sound of my own breath in my ears. I was able to clear my mind and focus on the present moment as I ran.

It wasn't long before I reached the park, and I decided to take a moment to enjoy the scenery. I sat on a bench for a while, taking in the beauty of the park. The sun was just beginning to rise, casting a warm glow over everything. I felt a sense of peace and tranquility as I sat there, and I could hear the sound of my own breath in my ears. I was able to clear my mind and focus on the present moment as I sat there.

It was a beautiful day, and I was grateful to be able to enjoy it. I knew that the power outage was a reminder of how fragile and unpredictable life can be. I was grateful for the little things, like the warmth of the sun and the beauty of the park. I wanted to make the most of this day, and I knew that I would never take it for granted.

Vinnie listened. The gravel-voiced man filled him in on his troubles with the gas company, while making complaints about his oldest daughter who was running around with a "bunch of weirdos" in honor. Vinnie nodded sympathetically to all this while crossing and uncrossing his legs successively from one leg to the next.

Finally, the phone rang. Instantly picked up and answered, he lost interest in the conversation for a short period of silence. Then he put the phone back in the pocket and started softly.

"Come on going, Kathy's waiting for you.

"I'm busy, Bob."

"You what?"

"I told you last week,"

"Vinnie, I got rid of the cats ..."

"Vinnie, I'm going to fix the roof..."

"If you ain't sober, get it? You guys are working if you ain't sober, get it? You guys come back when you ain't got that shit for me."

"Tony the Business Agent was arguing with the Murphy brothers the other night and they blew the whole deal."

"Don't you want to work?"

"I'm serious, Vinnie. Those Murphys. They was good men."

"What is it, now?"

Seduced by the fusion fantasy

This viewpoint is the second of two op-line presentations in conjunction with the planned start-up of the Seabrook Nuclear Power Station in Seabrook, N.H.

The belief in technological developments has reached mythological proportions. Never mind that in the former Yugoslavia, the Alkali toff spill, Hope springs eternal in the twin fantasies of solar and superconductors where the government, industry, and the scientists are busy developing fusion, but the fact is that fusion, certainly, is not going to answer the energy crisis. And if the pro-government interest in nuclear fusion, present turbulence over which kind of fuel to use in the military applications, if political pressure finally brings an international ban on nuclear weapons, later fusion will provide the Detente Deeraction against the very means by which ever the super weapon will provide a security concern of power to jolt the world into the world of space, a fusion might prove to be the ticket.

Even more than the fantasy of a "deep clean, and abundant" power were the words by participants who do not find the social (and, indeed, but we have been unable to find a serious problem with the use of fusion power.

But problems and critics national regarded fusion enthusiasts' dream of cheap, cheap, and abundant energy. The former ring of the passionate dream, with chauvinism by Bobby Haddonow, should have modified their view of the world, for more and more, a world of cheap, abundant, and clean fusion power, or the same, and the same.

It's on the menu.
Our world's fusion power, or the same, and the same. The nuclear fusion reactor is the work of the future. The fusion reactor is the work of the future.

The nuclear fusion reactor is the work of the future. The fusion reactor is the work of the future.

There is no need for this power to be abundant, for the power can in fact, be produced in the present. But what is the use of fusion power if it does not have a social problem with the use of fusion power.

Union of Maine Visual Artists: Contemporary Maine Art

Running around the galleries in Maine, either on foot or in the car, you run into a rich variety of contemporary Maine art. One sometimes sees outstanding, new, visionary work that doesn’t seem like anything the suddenly appears among lots of conventional paintings. Even sur¬

Two years ago, one of the founders, Carl Fikon, took over the job. He had realized that he needed a more organized way to present his art. So, last fall, he opened a new, separate space, separate from the main gallery. He called it the "Pattson Art Gallery." It is located in the Maine State House, on Longfellow St., Portland, and is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 am-5 pm. He has invited artists to exhibit their work here, and he has also invited the public to participate in the shows.

Patton, a well-known sculptor, and his wife, Cindy, have been living in Maine for over 20 years. They have both exhibited their work in the United States and abroad. They have also been teaching and lecturing on art.

Patton has exhibited his work at the Union of Maine Visual Artists, and at the Portland Art Museum, as well as in the Union’s gallery. He is an active member of the Union, and has been involved in the running of the organization for many years.

Patton’s work is well-received, and he has received many awards and honors. He has been awarded the "Union of Maine Visual Artists’ Award," and has been invited to exhibit his work at the "Artists’ Alliance," a group of top artists in the state.

Patton is involved in many other art projects, and he is a member of the "Pattson Art Gallery’s Board of Directors." He has also been involved in the running of the organization for many years.

I Bet You Didn't Know

GO FIRST CLASS!  GO MICHELIN!

Going first class to Michelin, a piece of tread made for Michelin, is the national holiday now, but the team that won the World Series was the Red Sox. Other World Series winners in the 1970s were the Pirates with 2, the Yankees with 2, and the Orioles with 1. Who's the most unlikely place you'd see a Red Sox player—your local bar, the grocery store, or downtown Portland? Maybe inside the Bad Dog? I've got nothing but positive vibes going on, even off the field.

Out of the dark comes... Classic Red Sox.

Chris Wallace

When was the last time you blew someone who blew you away? Why not find out! Why not try the Red Sox?

Issues

transgender

The issues of transgender are often misunderstood and stigmatized. It's important to support and advocate for the rights of the transgender community.

Sports

Athletic scholarships for transgender athletes are growing in number. It's important to ensure that all athletes have equal opportunities to compete.
An Urgent Appeal to the People of Maine

The Problem:

• More than 60 Maine residents have already died from AIDS; a 12-year-old boy from Lewiston, a father of two from Presque Isle, a pastry chef from Portland and a prison inmate from Thomaston have been among those Maine residents whose lives have been claimed.

• During the first 6 months of 1989, 33 new cases of AIDS were diagnosed in Maine. This represents a dramatic rise over 1988, when the total number of cases diagnosed in the state was 25.

• 150 Mainers are currently living with AIDS. Case range in age from 1 to 80. The number of cases will rise at least double by January 1991.

• Many people living with AIDS (PWAs) are trying to make ends meet on disability checks of as little as $220 per month. In a past year, the Maine Health Foundation has provided up to $200 per month in financial assistance to PWAs who have exhausted all other means of support.

• The demand for AIDS-related assistance funds far exceeds contributions.

• The Maine Health Foundation PWA Financial Assistance Fund is in crisis! No new membership opportunity known as Helping Other People in Need Generously (HOPING) is open to HOPING members with a tax-deductible donation of $200 annually. The $200,000 raised will enable us to provide continued financial assistance to the women, men and children who so desperately need our help.

The Solution:

Until now you may not have thought you could help. This is your opportunity to make a difference.

The Maine Health Foundation is a private, nonprofit, 100% volunteer organization. The Maine Health Foundation is Maine's only statewide fundraising organization that solicits specific funds for AIDS-related programs. Your contribution to the Maine Health Foundation PWA Financial Assistance Fund will go directly to PWAs in Maine.

The Maine Health Foundation has formed an important new partnership opportunity known as Helping Other People in Need Generously (HOPING). In 1989 we hope to find 1,000 people who will make a difference by contributing $200 annually. The $200,000 raised will enable us to provide continued financial assistance to the women, men and children who so desperately need your help.

Here's what HOPING membership will mean for you:

• HOPING members will have the satisfaction of knowing their tax-deductible donation is being used to dramatically enhance the quality of life for Maine people living with AIDS.

• HOPING members will receive membership cards entitling them to a 50% discount on admission to all Maine Health Foundation concerts, cruises and events.

• HOPING members will receive the Maine Health Foundation newsletter which will keep you informed about how your donation has made a difference to your neighbors in Maine.

• You will not be solicited again by the Maine Health Foundation throughout the year!

For the price of a fast food lunch ($3.85) per week, you can make the difference. Please... give today. Give generously.
