PEAKS ISLAND BULK FOOD COOP

There has been an active bulk food coop on the island for the last few years. Marcia Hart-Quinby has been instrumental and monumental in organizing our efforts - thank you Marcia! We now have a committee structure that can see an order through from start to finish.

In order to continue an island Food Coop, we need a member(s) willing to act as our General Manager to initiate an order and to oversee the coordination of the committees - basically to make sure it all works.

To all who have benefited from the Food Coop - please help us continue our efforts! Please call Marcia Hart-Quinby, 6-2244, if you can help or would like more information about how the coop works and what we need in order to continue. Thanks.

News from the Teaching Assistant Principal:

All of us here at school were thrilled by the large, courteous audience attending our Holiday Program in December. Weren't you impressed by our children's performance and by the delightful array of cookies they made? The whole evening attested to the team effort of our staff and students.

Our Innovative Grant, the Diversity Project, moved into its next stage during January. Now that staff has embarked on training, materials ordered and groundwork in general has been laid, we move into the classrooms for presentations to the children. Also, we move to incorporate parents and other interested adults in this effort. A training/informational session will be held during February. We hope many of you will be in attendance. We are working to stretch our awareness as we consider the uniqueness of ourselves and others around us.

Winter activities take over during January and February in the Kindergarten. We hope to have some snow, so we can have our annual sliding days. We'll also be taking care of the birds - with suet-seed balls.

Grade One hopes you enjoyed their own personal versions of their Twelve Days of Christmas books. We are now working on penguins; we're writing our own stories and making penguin puppets.

The second and third grade class hopes their families enjoyed reading the Holiday Legends Books written by the students. We have settled in for academics with a January, winter flair. We will be focusing on Ben Franklin, Martin Luther King, Jr., and other important birthdates, as well as anniversaries of important events during January and February. The children will continue to read and write across the curriculum.

The fourth and fifth grade has just completed a geometry unit where we learned to make constructions. We have completed a unit on Indians and will now be studying the Revolutionary War. All students participate in weekly discussions of the Junior Great Books series. Our Math Team did well at the Math Meet in Yarmouth during December. We have received a new map from our classmate Rickie Bogle, who is spending this year on a sailboat with her family.

The children had a surprise treat on January 24th when Roger Knight, Hillside Lumber, brought his two llamas to school. "Pasta" and "Cinnamon" visited the classrooms and were a delight to the children. We sure do appreciate Mr. Knight sharing his wonderful animals with us.
